DR. JEAN DODDS

Most "dog" people know of Dr. Jean Dodds. Whatever your opinion of her teachings, it doesn't hurt to keep informed of them. Following are a couple of things that have been circulating in the last couple of months. Both are "ads" and I am sure they gain financially. As always, it is your responsibility to research and determine for yourself if they are of value to you.

CANINE THYROID DISEASE

We are excited to announce the publication last week of Jean's book on canine thyroid disease. It can be obtained from Amazon.

http://www.amazon.com/Canine-Thyroid-Epidemic-Answers-Need/dp/1617810169/ref=sr_1_1?ie=UTF8&s=books&qid=1302481536&sr=1-1

Please help us educate all those who work with and love their pets about this condition. We are told that the book is already a fast seller, and is being called "THE Book on Thyroid". So buy two copies—one for yourself and another for a friend (or your veterinarian). The book is well referenced scientifically. We owe it our pets to get out the real information about thyroid disorders. For veterinarians - there is even moreVeterinary Practice News has also just published Jean's way of accurately testing and interpreting thyroid tests. Download this and keep a copy handy for all veterinarians in your practice.

We are here to help you with your testing and questions.

Best regards,
Jean and Hemopet

Dr. Dodds & Hemopet: Saliva Test for Food Sensitivity and Intolerance

Nutriscan is now available. Our revolutionary patented, canine food sensitivity and intolerance diagnostic test uses an important new approach to nutrition. Salivary diagnostics can more accurately identify the foods to be avoided than can serum food "allergy" testing. This salivary diagnostic system tests saliva for emerging food reactant antibodies in healthy dogs, as well as the existing antibodies in dogs with known or suspected food intolerance.

The test kit can be obtained directly from Hemopet or your veterinarian can order the kit for you. It is really a very simple procedure. After following directions for collecting the saliva, and adding it to the special double-sleeved tube that we provide, the tube is sealed and sent to Hemopet for analysis.

Testing protocols are for gluten and other food ingredients. The primary dietary antigens to be tested are: corn, wheat, soy, beef, eggs, and milk. This food sensitivity diagnostic testing will identify pets needing appropriate personalized foods and treats. Nutriscan saliva screening should be used annually or more often, as warranted.

After you complete our On Line Test Request Form at http://labordatenbank.com/cake/hemopet/samples/hemopet_form - please CLICK at the bottom form to SUBMIT—as it simplifies everything for everyone.
